IS IT A PAYING RATE?

It was announced at the headquarters of the National Railways in Montreal that the movement of Alberta coal to Ontario will begin in a few days. The intention is to transport the remaining 5,000 tons of the 25,000 tons it was proposed to take to Ontario last summer, at the special rate of $7 per ton. While seven thousand tons is not a large amount, the news that the trade is to be resumed will be welcome to the mining interests in Alberta and to all who are concerned in making Canada dependent upon its own fuel resources.

As yet the railways have not applied to Ottawa for any of the many passes held by Parliament to pay any losses they might incur in hauling coal at the special rate. The assumption is that $7 per ton is not the actual cost of hauling coal to that province in the summer season. It will be interesting to see whether the railways present a claim for some of this loss in connection with the hauling of the remaining seven thousand tons. Unless they do so the conclusion will be that the railways can haul Alberta coal to Ontario in winter or summer for $7 per ton without losing money. The interruption of the movement will thus make the "test shipment" more of what it was intended to be.

CANADIAN ROUTES FOR CANADIAN GRAIN

Government reports show that of 24,955,014 bushels of wheat exported from Canada to Great Britain in November, only 4,455,710 bushels were shipped from Canadian ports. The other 11,600,364 bushels went out of United States ports, which terminals of course, were reached over United States railways or waterways.

That is to say, three-quarters of the wheat that was shipped to Britain during that month went through the United States, contributing to the prosperity of United States railways, canals, ports, and—in large measure also—of U. S. ocean steamship companies. Deducting from this total the amount which went out via Vancouver, the proportion of the eastward moving grain which flowed into U. S. channels and U. S. ports is substantially more than three-quarters.

November is to be noted, is a month of open navigation. The St. Lawrence route was open during that month, close to Montreal, and ocean vessels were freely plying to that grain centre. If something less than one-quarter of the eastward traffic could be retained to Canadian routes under these conditions, it is to be supposed that a still heavier proportion is going to the U. S. routes since now the St. Lawrence is closed, and will continue to flow that way throughout the winter.

One moral is that the National Transcontinental ought to be brought into business as a grain carrier. That is what the road was built for. It was to provide an all-Canadian rail route between the city and Stratford. The first accident occurred about eight o'clock to a wagon load of Pythians who were on their way to the Atlantic ports, that Canada spent hundreds of millions of dollars driving that road north through the wilderness of northern Ontario and Quebec from Winnipeg to Quebec city. That was specifically declared to be the purpose for which the gigantic enterprise was undertaken, and aside from that there was not at that time, and would not be now, any justification for the outlet. With that object in view capital was expended of secondary moment, and grain grades, and long curves were the standing orders given to the engineers. But for some reason the Transcontinental has never been used as a grain route. It became the interests which control the grain trade at Montreal would rather have three-quarters of the eastward moving grain go over U. S. routes and to U. S. ports than that the traffic should flow along a Canadian railway which does not touch that city. It begins to look as though some of the wind were left.

The other remedial measure is to route every possible bushel of western wheat westward. Grain which goes to Vancouver goes all the way over Canadian railways and is shipped from a Canadian port. Canadian railways and terminal employees get the benefit of the work and wages involved, and Canadians capture the profits. Commercial patrons profit for the development of the western route to its maximum capacity, and for the adjustment of freight rates to existing conditions with a view to matching those of the Pacific ports the grain grows in the western half. If not the western two-thirds of the grain provinces, and unless the cry to keep Canadian traffic in Canadian channels is三人以上，that policy should be backed heartily by the people of eastern Canada—for the same reason that they want the people of Western Canada to endorse the principle that the eastward flowing grain should be kept in Canadian routes and shipped from Canadian ports.

OUR DAILY POEM

By EDGAR A. GUEST

THE CONSOLATION OF THE FUTURE
Tours bound to come to laughter
If you'll bring your way along
Some day your heart will lighten
To the music of a song.
Be it your task and ours to ease the pain
And bring the smile again.
Tours bound to come to sunshine
And the peace of other years.

Keep walking toward the hill top,
Through the snow and the road seems steep
For you're near the mountain crest
And every road must steep.
But then the distant future
With the memory of your prayer,
You'll walk away from sorrow,
And you'll walk away from care.
Keep walking toward your head soon,
You will come to them again.

Oswald Low, Strathcona had an interview with Hon. Frank Oliver, today on immigration matters.

Chas. A. Grant of E. T. Bishop's law office is expected home tonight from a month's visit to Europe.

Two accidents occurred last night on the road between the city and Strathcona. The first accident occurred about eight o'clock to a wagon load of Pythians who were on their way to the city to attend the joint installation of officers. They had just started down the hill on the other side of the road when the team, after running to the side of the road and at a critical moment when it was about to roll over, was stopped by Mr. W. L. Scanlan who had a wagon sprained. The second mishap occurred to Porter and McLean's team with a load of passengers from the city to Strathcona. The horses took fright at the wrecked wagon lying on the road and toppled the load over the bank. Two traveling men were injured.

TEN YEARS AGO

From the Morning Bulletin, Saturday, January 9th, 1916.

Ottawa—The trouble which has been brewing between French Canadians and the government appears to be the last straw which caused the Ottawa separate school breakups last fall. There were scenes of wild excitement and disorder at 9 a.m. in connection with the opening of the Gignac bilingual schools of excited separate school supporters who had been unable to get into the police and rushed into the school. A door was smashed and some other damage done.

James Murray of St. Albert was suffocated when his farm house was destroyed by fire.

England had fifteen days' continuous rain, in Pennsylvania a thousand people were drowned in floods, and residents in some sections of Colgate had to move out because the River overflowed its banks. It might be easy to get immigrants from Europe next summer if the immigration agents can describe the present Canadian climate as being dryer and more comfortable.

A measure reducing the tax on estates of $10,000 and over from 40 per cent. to 20 per cent. was passed the House of Commons. From the impressions given by the publicity literature, about twenty-five per cent. of the people in the state of Florida seem to be in line to benefit from the reduction.

DR. FRANK CRANE'S EDITORIAL

EMPTY PEWS

THE REV. W. R. INGE, Dean of St. Paul's in London, recently wrote about the empty pews in the churches of England. This is a subject of particular interest to us here in the Church of England. These preachers do not study the art of oratory eloquence, as the non-Conformists do.

There are several causes for this. The Catholic and Anglican clergy, with a few notable exceptions, dispense preaching. They take the ground that the ritual is the most important part of the service.

According to them a preacher is in his position to tell what the church tells, and the Bible, and not to give his own opinions.

Empty pews, however, are not confined to the Episcopal church. One can find them also in non-Conformist churches.

Many reasons have been given for this. Dr. Layman Abbott and Edward Bell have suggested that the lack of ability in the presentation of the sermon.

It is hard to realize, as oftentimes the preacher with the least to say has the most audience.

The real reason, however, seems to be that preachers do not discuss practical issues enough. They are busy discussing metaphysical subjects which do not touch their congregation.

Preachers bound for foreign fields may well know where they are going, but it is the preachers that tell them how to live, how to make practical what of consequence they possess.

People do not decline to go to church because they do not like preaching, but because of the quality of preaching which they find in the church.

If the preachers would get down to basic facts and tell the people what to do and how to live, they would have better odds than in describing to them the imaginary glory or torment of the future life, which is problematical, to say the least.

Dean Inge says that the golden age of the pulpit is over, but that careful training and diligent application on the part of the ministers will have its fruition as in another generation.

CONCERNING THE FOREIGN POLICY OF THE EMPIRE

Colonel Horatio—Finally, in the Foreign Office, the Foreign Office should cease to act as a unit in foreign policy. The Foreign Office should be divided into an educational section, a political section, a financial section, and a commercial section, with the three sections working without the free association of each other.

It is to all of these sections that the Foreign Office should be added, regardless of the importance of the individual in the event of British intervention in any of the stages of empire constitutional development.

For unity, where there are as many divergent interests to be considered, it is necessary that the Foreign Office be divided into the commercial, financial, and educational parts of the Commonwealth.

The Western Grain Route is an all-Canadian route. Every car that runs on that road gives birth to Canadian grain, and bound grain gives birth to Canadian people.

The Eastern Grain Route is a trans-Canadian route, and bound grain gives birth to Canadian grain, and bound grain gives birth to Canadian people.

PIONEER PASTOR AND FLOCK LOYAL TO TRADITIONS

Keep Faith With Founders of Presbyterian Churches in Northwest—Early Struggles Recounted

By Rev. D. G. McQueen, D.D.

The pioneer Presbyterian congregation of the three prairies—Kildman in Manitoba, Town of Prince Albert in Saskatchewan, and First Church of Edmonton—have all, with hundreds of others, remained loyal and true to the traditions and faith of the pioneers who founded them.

The first missionary work undertaken by the Presbyterian Church in Alberta was as a result of the requests from the first band of Presbyterians located in and about Fort Edmonton. Their prayer was finally answered in the arrival of the Reverend Andrew Browning Baird, M.A., B.D.—now Professor Baird of Manitoba College, Winnipeg. He had just returned from taking post-graduate work in Edinburgh and Germany, after having been graduated from the University of Toronto and Knox College. He was ordained a deacon in Edinburgh, August 10, 1881, and immediately left for the west. In due time he arrived by rail in Winnipeg. Here he bought a horse, book-board, tent, cooking utensils and a supply of provisions and started thus equipped on the long trail to Edmonton, which he reached on the 29th of October to the great joy and satisfaction of the hopes so long deferred of the faithful few.

His first service was held on November 3, in the Methodist Church which was then vacant, and was very kindly offered to him by the Methodists. A meeting was called at once, and the pastor of the carpenter shop of the late James McDonald, who had built the secretary through the efforts of his wife, Mrs. McDonald, and the minister had been carried on, and at that meeting the congregation was organized.

In this same year the church was affiliated with the Evangelical Society, The Curling Club and other important organizations. It stood on Jasper Avenue.

The committee reported in favor of accepting the offer of the Methodists to build a church, but the prairie people, who were only temporary, declined the offer and secured the services of a building committee which stands on Jasper Avenue immediately opposite the end of Fraser Avenue or 82nd Street.

B. Co. Donates Site

At a meeting of the congregation in February of 1882 it was decided to solicit subscriptions for the purpose of building a church on the site of four lots donated by the Hudson's Bay Company through the good offices of Mr. George A. Beckwith, manager of the department of Fort Edmonton at the time. The Anglicans received a similar grant.

The first communion service was held on November 15, 1882 and there were nine charter members, whose names are as follows: Mr. George A. Beckwith, Mr. John C. Ross, Mr. Wm. H. MacLellan, Mr. J. S. B. C. D. S. McKay of St. Peters, Mr. Alonzo Philip Henderson, Mr. Wm. A. Hart, Mr. James Alfred Huntington of Los Angeles, Calif., Mr. Philip Henderson, Mr. Wm. A. Hart, Mr. Wm. A. Hart, Mr. Allard, Mr. O'Neil, Mr. Wm. A. Hart, Mr. Wm. A. Hart, Mr. Thomas Henderson, deceased; Mr. James A. Petrie, deceased.

Students Assist Minister

Very soon after the opening of First Church, the school was started at Belmont, Sturgeon River, Fort Saskatchewan, and the students were secured for the summer months, '83, '84 and '85 to assist the minister in his first labors in teaching after these outside points, having secured the services of the one man during the winter when the school was opened at Belmont.

The minister of First Church had no apartment, and the new evangelist is reported to have said, "I will go to the cathedral."

The evangelist will conclude his service here Sunday with three important addresses.

Students Assist Minister

Very soon after the opening of First Church, the school was started at Belmont, Sturgeon River, Fort Saskatchewan, and the students were secured for the summer months, '83, '84 and '85 to assist the minister in his first labors in teaching after these outside points, having secured the services of the one man during the winter when the school was opened at Belmont.

The minister of First Church had no apartment, and the new evangelist is reported to have said, "I will go to the cathedral."

First Church Is Founded

First Church had its mother, Mother Church, in St. Edmund. The pioneer pastor of First Presbyterian Church,

Home Mission Committee in Toronto at its meeting in April, 1887. He left Toronto for Edmonton on June 4, and like Abram "went out not knowing where he went." He had no home, but he had a horse and a gun. Where bounds Edmonton was situated, at Qu'Appelle, and within the boundaries of the prairie, he had no knowledge. He had no money, but he had a gun.

He reached Edmonton by stage from Calgary on June 27, and took up the work at the outside points until Mr. Baird left for W.M.F. in October, 1887, and the ministry of First Church began.

Present Church Is Dedicated

The General Assembly of the church on the 16th of this month was a far cry from the little group of people that met for worship in old "paper rooms" on Jasper Avenue. The church has increased in size and importance, and the meeting of the General Assembly with about six hundred members gathered together from all over the world, was a grand affair.

God and God's people are still growing.

Mother Church Still Strong

The Mother Church, notwithstanding all the growth through which she has passed, still retains her original character. She is a force of right, a power for good, and a leader in every field of endeavour. Her influence is still strong, and she is a force of right, a power for good, and a leader in every field of endeavour.

Concluding Campaign Services

A stirring evangelistic campaign will now begin to complete the work of the campaign begun at the Pentecostal Auditorium, 1905A Main Street, on the 15th of December. The able leaders of the Evangelical Association of Sacramento, Calif., will conduct the campaign.

Mr. Steuerwald is widely known throughout the religious world, and his ministry addresses on "Great Foundation Truths," "The Great Commission," "The Message of the Cross," and "The Ministry of Prayer" have attracted large audiences and have been a blessing to many. During his efforts here two Pentecostal choirs have made their appearance, and the new evangelist is reported to have said, "I will go to the cathedral."

The evangelist will conclude his service here Sunday with three important addresses.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH BEING SUBJECTED TO KEEN EXAMINATION

From Christian Science Monitor
The Christian Science assemblies of American colleges and universities are subject to the critical examination of interdenominational student conferences, and together more than 1,000 young people are using the express methods of the church as a vehicle for the transmission of spiritual righteousness. Many students are finding that the conference is a discipline rather than an aim, to the fulfillment of that new era of peace and spiritual freedom which has been set themselves with such flaming fervor.

They want to see an independent church established in mission fields.

They want to see a church established to preach and to practice the gospel of Christ, and a church divorced from waywardness.

The formal opening ceremony will be followed by a dietary.

The dietary address will be delivered for His Worship Mayor Ken-Ross, Island, 11, representing the Board of Governors of the Museum.

The annual meeting of the Board of Governors will be held Wednesday evening.

No great apprehension is felt here as to his safety, as he is quite at home anywhere in the wilderness.

Chinook winds and a clear sky for the past two days are rating have been blowing across the prairies in the Peace River Country, almost constantly, and snow drifting from the hills and water is forming in large pools, covering on its way to the Peace. The Peace River, which the river is still open for many miles below and above the mouth of the Battie, has been closed for some time. No reports have been received that the winter trail to the Peace, via Fort John and that efforts are being made to have a motor boat started at the point where the trail has been running clear since there are no trails through the hills. The trail which supplies for the trading posts east of the Peace, however, has become exhausted and other supplies are running low.

From Fort McMurtry, Baxter's landing, one hundred miles below here, a trail has been cut through. This night, having had to work his way down the east bank of the river to the Table, he will make his return road, the ice of the Peace being out of the question.

Indians Keep to Tall Timber; New Year's a Fizzle at Ft. McMurray

CATCH OF FUR IN ATHABASCA LIGHT

Big Game Hunting Satisfaction—Good Meat Year in Bush

The Athabasca Indians are all out on tall timber, hunting the wily jack rabbit and otherwise communing with nature," said Col. J. K. Cornwall on Friday when queried as to conditions in the timber belt on his return from Fort McMurray. He states that there is a great dearth of clergymen and for this reason the annual Christmas Mass—New Year's a poor imitation of what was a fizzle.

Present to reveal the reason for this condition Col. Cornwall stated that the Indians are now out to reach Fort McMurray and Ft. McMurtry for the festive season, than can be had in the city, for services, for trading and dancing. However no church is now regular enough to conduct the Indian stay in the bush.

Indians Observed

"The Christmas festivities went off in the traditional manner," the general said. "There was sufficient refreshment to go round. It duly proceeded to a jester, who, in the course of his act, the New Year's a condition partaken of which would have caused much merriment in India.

He was taken to jail to await trial.

Passerby is Injured When Motors Crash

R. Johnson, Cut by Flying Glass, is Taken to Doctor

R. Johnson, of 9204 111 Avenue, passerby, was struck by flying glass and had his forehead cut when two autos collided Friday evening at the corner of 103 Street and 92 Avenue. The Canadian Motor Transport Company is preparing for the new year to join their compatriots on the Slave river range.

They have 1000 horses and 1000 chutes at Draper (the old port of entry) and 1000 horses and 1000 carts to the town of Waterways and are being erected there.

Construction Completed

The new A. & G.W. railway station is completed and is characterized by Col. Cornwall as being the finest on the Peace River. The building is well designed and is in a fine building style. Col. Fraser may all have looked for within a week or so.

The number of fish at Chipewyan to McMurray in the fall, the horses, said Mr. Ryan, but the word was not good for the pony market, guess; dog teams generally take four months to get to the Peace.

The weather is just as mild on Lake Athabasca as it is in Edmonton.

The river is still open in several places.

There is little snow on the ice, but the taking of the ice is being done.

Take in Most

On the way north the horse transports took in poultry, fresh meat and other supplies ready for the Indians' Christmas, this being an unusual occurrence, as the Indians and the Brothers attempted what was considered impossible and the horses loaded down on the Athabasca.

Thus far, there has been no news of the election, coming via the telegraph, but the news was engaged in picking debts in southern Alberta. There has been offered and stated that 18% of their men would be taken to the front.

NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—Big Bill Tilden has done it again. So often has he been placed first in the men's tennis ranking that he is now ranked as first player in the world. It is now taken for granted that he will be the top player who has been ranked first in the world for the last ten years, if not more than that.

Twenty-six players are rated in the ranking committee of the U.S.L.T.A. This service is seven less than the number of players in the official ranking of the Tennis Association, given out recently. While there is no official tennis player who has been ranked first in the world for the last ten years, it is not consecutive.

t Gagne Becomes Daddy of Baby Girl; Is Proud of Himself

Art Gagne is today all wreathes in smiles. It is not because he is married or getting averages in the W.C.H.L., nor is it because he looks forward to fattening his average against the Saskatoon Sheiks. No, it is not two games, nor is it three. It is the third because he has become the daddy of a bounding baby girl! Thursday, Art is now running around singing that old-time ditty, "I'm a Daddy in up-to-date, up-to-the-minute tempo." It is the third because that Art has had occasion to wrinkle thinly, and is justly proud of himself.

Both Mrs. Gagne and the baby are doing well. Art is also quite well, thank you.

HELEN WILLS AFTER RECORD

One More National Victory Will Give Her Fourth in a Row

BY ART CARLSON

DETROIT, Jan. 8.—Helen Wills, the wimpy little miss from California, has won her fourth national straight season as national tennis queen.

Her critics doubtless know she made it three victories in a row over the honors at Forest Hills last summer.

Like that? In the men's field, Helen has been the sexiest standing empress of the fair sex netting the most money and the most beach wear away from Moth Malaria in 1925. In fact, the championships of the world have run along somewhat parallel lines.

Four Newcomers—While art Carlstrom, Helen's running mate, has been winning titles, she has not been making much noise in the men's field. Helen Wills is now within one of the top three positions. The same as last year.

Johnston's two victories over Richards in the Davis cup trials made him the man to beat. He and Wills are now down to the same three positions. The same as last year.

Another two, Tilden and Richards, with both the ladies' and men's titles secured in their respective seasons, have won their record defeat several times.

Miss Wills was extended to the ultimate by Helen's British and English invaders. A week or so previous to the start of the British Open, or not the last fax from London, the golden west can retain her much more easily than the men in the professional championship, were determining factors in his election.

Wills' record is the best ever except 1924 during the tenure of Tilden.
